What it Did for a Pretty Little Indiana Village.

A Merchant Steps on a Lucifer, Causing it to Explode.

A Barrel of Gasoline Ignited From it and the Business Portion of the Town is Destroyed—Eleven Men Were Prostrated by the Heat.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 4.—The prosperous and beautiful little Indiana town of Burden, formerly New Providence, eighteen miles north of Jeffersonville, on the Monon, was visited by a fire Wednesday morning which nearly destroyed the business portion of the town. Before the conflagration was under control two squares of business houses were in ashes.

About 8:30 o'clock Mr. Van Gilder, proprietor of a tin shop almost opposite Prof. W. Borden's fine new residence was in the rear of the store drawing gasoline from a barrel. He stepped on a match and an explosion occurred, and the store was enveloped in flames.

The fire spread southward from Van Gilder's store for several blocks, sweeping everything before it, despite the efforts of the citizens to check the flames with the scanty supply of water furnished from buckets. The fire spread to the dry goods store of T. S. Ramon and three buildings owned by him, thence to Mrs. Stelcher's millinery store and residence, Mrs. D. H. Miller, Emery Porter's residence. Dr. Stelcher's drug store was badly damaged, as was Prof. Borden's residence. Several cars belonging to the Monon were burned.

On the north side of Van Gilder's store was the building formerly occupied by Geo. Miller as a hotel, but now occupied by Edward McKelvey as a confectionery, grocery and harness store. It was entirely destroyed. When it was found that the fire was beyond control, telegrams for aid were sent to Indianapolis and Jeffersonville.

Chief Merker and four men loaded the Jeffersonville steamer on a flat and went to London on a special, making the eighteen miles in twenty-seven minutes. The Salem company arrived first. The fire was nearly under control when Chief Merker arrived, but the engine did good service in subduing the flames. The losses, as far as can be learned are as follows: T. S. Ramon, dwelling, $12,000; insurance, $2,000; Sarah Burns, residence, loss $1,500; Mrs. Shepp, $1,700; Mrs. Stelcher, $7,000; McKelvey, $2,000; Mrs. Keely, $400; Mrs. B. B. Wood, $200; O. H. Van Gilder, $1,500; and William McKelvey, $500.

Eleven men were prostrated by the heat while fighting the fire. Two of them will probably die.

ICEBERG GALORE.

The Dark Aloes Encounters Them on Her Trip From Auckland.

New York, Aug. 4.—The American bark Aloes, which arrived in the lower bay from Auckland, New Zealand, has had a wonderful trip, having escaped being crushed by icebergs only by a narrow margin.

The shipper of the Aloes is Capt. Joseph Swain, and he carried a crew of twelve men. On July 21 a man on the lookout shouted: "Ice on the starboard bow." Capt. Swain was immediately summoned on deck, and the first object that met his eyes was an immense iceberg towering into the sky about 400 feet high, and extending four miles that distance in length. The ship was put in a direction that would allow her to escape the iceberg, but when she had traveled for several days she was found to be still in the center of a large pack there were easily 100 around her, and it was only owing to the good seamanship of her captain that the ship escaped destruction.

Capt. Swain of the North German Lloyd steamship Elbe, which arrived Tuesday reports that he sighted the iceberg on May 25, about 100 miles from the coast of New Zealand. It was an immense one, fully 400 feet in height and presented a magnificent spectacle. The sighting of the iceberg proves that the ice is retreating northward at a very early season of the year.
